Concept Note:

Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's most enduring legacy is his pivotal role as the chief architect of the Indian Constitution. With India's independence in 1947, the task of drafting a new Constitution to guide the nascent republic was entrusted to the Constituent Assembly. As chairman of the drafting committee, Ambedkar played a crucial role in shaping the democratic foundation of the nation. The Indian Constitution, which came into effect on January 26, 1950, embodies his unwavering commitment to justice, equality, fraternity, and human rights. It enshrines the principles of democracy, secularism, and social justice ideals that Ambedkar championed throughout his life. His intellectual contributions ensured that the Constitution became a cornerstone of civil rights and a safeguard for marginalized communities.

Beyond his role in constitution making, Dr. Ambedkar was a visionary social reformer dedicated to eradicating social hierarchies and uplifting the oppressed. His relentless efforts to empower marginalized communities continue to inspire generations. In recognition of his life, work, and profound impact on the nation, Institution of Dalit Study and Research (IDSR) is organizing a one-day National Seminar on the occasion of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar Jayanti on April 16, 2025.

This seminar entitled “Revisiting Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's Legacy: Democracy, Equality, and Social Justice” aims to deepen the understanding of Dr. Ambedkar's vision and transformative contributions to modern India. It will feature keynote addresses, paper presentations, and discussions on his enduring legacy in social justice, democracy, education, equality, and human rights.
